Education

At Hand In Hand, we believe that children learn through play! A play-centered approach to early education is the most effective way to teach young children skills and concepts. Each classroom environment is designed for the age and abilities of the children and is arranged with developmentally appropriate equipment and materials that offer hands-on activities and experiences that provide meaningful learning opportunities for young children. These activities are designed to promote the development of the whole child--socially, emotionally, physically, cognitively and creatively.

Development

We believe that young children are intrinsically motivated to learn and that they learn best through experiences with concrete objects and activities. Each developmentally appropriate classroom environment enables children to use their natural curiosity to explore, investigate, experiment, and manipulate everything that comes within their reach. It is the learning “process” and not the product, that is important. Children are encouraged to ask questions, make predictions, and develop problem solving skills. Our developmentally appropriate curriculum allows each child to progress at his/her individual rate of learning with vast opportunities for multi-level learning experiences that enable them to make choices, express themselves, and feel successful.

Mission Statement

The mission of Hand in Hand Early Childhood Center is to provide high quality care and early education for all children in a safe and nurturing environment, with responsive, loving care and enriching opportunities and experiences that are developmentally appropriate and build self-esteem and independence.

Our Cause Defines Us

High-quality child care keeps children safe and healthy. In addition, it helps children develop skills they need for success in school and in their lives outside of school. Hand in Hand offers a stable environment. Children need structure and stability to learn and grow in positive ways and we feel we offer that to all families at Hand in Hand.

Community

Hand in Hand, parents, and the community work together to promote health, well being, and learning of all children. Schools that actively involve parents and engage community resources are able to respond more effectively to the health-related needs of the children. Family and community involvement foster partnerships among Hand in Hand, schools, family and community groups and individuals. These partnerships result in sharing and maximizing resources. And they help children and youth develop healthy behaviors and promote healthy families.
